1. Intended geographic reach

TradingBible wishes to evaluate access for eligible purchasers in the United States, Nigeria and additional international markets. Intent to serve a country does not constitute permission to market or sell tokens there. Every jurisdiction must be assessed before activation.

2. Initial market assessment register

Market	Proposed approach	Current decision
United States	Assess securities offering, federal/state financial regulation and purchaser classification	Not cleared
Nigeria	Assess SEC and other applicable digital-asset, payments and marketing requirements	Not cleared
European Economic Area	Assess MiCA and relevant national requirements	Not cleared
United Kingdom	Assess financial promotions and cryptoasset requirements	Not cleared
Canada	Assess provincial securities and dealer/custody requirements	Not cleared
Other countries	Country-by-country review before onboarding	Not cleared

3. Purchaser types

Potential purchaser categories include natural persons, companies, eligible institutional purchasers and other qualified categories where recognized by law. Purchaser eligibility must not be inferred merely from a checkbox. Required evidence may include identity, legal capacity, beneficial ownership, residence, accredited or professional status and source-of-funds information.

4. Access-control design

The sale platform should implement legal restrictions using multiple signals: declared residence, identity documents, payment origin, IP/geolocation, wallet screening and ongoing sanctions checks. VPN use or false declarations must not be treated as evidence of eligibility.

Maintain a jurisdiction decision log with counsel name, dated advice, applicable activity, marketing limits, purchaser categories, required filings and go-live authorization. Reassess when laws or offering facts change.

5. Marketing and intermediaries

Public advertisements, affiliate referrals, influencer promotion, airdrops, exchange listings and secondary-market facilitation may trigger additional obligations. Separate approval is required for each campaign and distribution method. No partner may promise profit or regulatory endorsement on TradingBible's behalf.

6. Denials and customer handling

Where a person is ineligible, prevent acceptance of payment and provide a neutral explanation where legally appropriate. Preserve an auditable decision record while respecting data protection obligations.
