2. Annual report working file

The Form C-AR working file should include:

- audited or reviewed financial statements, as required;
- management's discussion of the business and results;
- risk factors and material changes;
- use of proceeds and a comparison to the offering statement;
- related-party transactions;
- management and ownership changes;
- legal, regulatory and tax proceedings;
- investor communications and complaints; and
- counsel and accountant sign-offs.

3. Current report triggers

The company should treat the following as potential current-report triggers and confirm each with counsel:

DRAFT · COUNSEL REVIEW REQUIRED

- a material change in the company's business, management or financial condition;
- a material legal or regulatory proceeding;
- a material default or financing event;
- a change in the offering terms or use of proceeds;
- a material cybersecurity incident;
- a change in the company's accountants or financial statements;
- a transaction that could affect the issuer's eligibility; and
- any event the intermediary requires the company to disclose.

4. Calendar

Date	Event	Owner	Evidence	Status

5. Records and evidence

The company must retain:

1. the qualified offering statement and all amendments;
2. the campaign page and all investor communications;
3. the investor-limit and escrow records;
4. the closing documents and securities register;
5. the annual and current reports, with filing confirmations;
6. the board minutes approving each report;
7. counsel and accountant sign-offs; and
8. the complaint and correction log.

Records should be stored in a controlled data room with access limited to the reporting owner, counsel, finance and the chief executive officer.

DRAFT · COUNSEL REVIEW REQUIRED

6. Roles

Role	Responsibility
Chief executive officer	Approves reports and certifies accuracy
Finance owner	Prepares financial statements and use-of-proceeds reconciliation
Counsel	Reviews disclosure, filings and current-report triggers
Accountant	Reviews or audits financial statements as required
Reporting owner	Maintains the calendar, files reports and retains confirmations
Intermediary	Coordinates campaign records and investor communications

7. Escalation

Any missed deadline, late filing, material misstatement or regulatory inquiry must be escalated to the chief executive officer and counsel within one business day. The company must not wait for the next scheduled board meeting.

8. Certification

The undersigned certify that this calendar has been adopted, that a reporting owner has been appointed, and that the company will confirm the current deadlines with counsel and the intermediary.
